Not particularly. I am sensitive to the Collingwood connection however and the fact that both Powerstream and Veridian are involved. I detest coming into this under these circumstances. It makes us ass kissers.

I would continue to dialogue, receive one for testing with or without Mohawk, etc... Buy us some time for the Sept 19th meeting to see where this is all going.

Subject: Solar Vent and Peter Budd

Max: I got a call from Peter Budd this afternoon. He tells me that he is a part owner of the solar vent company Ed Houghton is behind and he says Ed asked him to call us. He says that in addition to the original takers, Veridian has come on board with Durham College to take 100 and that [REDACTED] has one on his cottage and that [REDACTED] Hydro want to sell it in its services company. He says he is doing the work to get OEB approval for the device, working through Cynthia Chaplin, but he first said it was to get it into rate base not CDM credit. My take is that he is pushing this on gadget guys like Angemeer. [REDACTED] Hydro did have our view of the risk to conservation results, but Budd has no plan for validating the savings. He is offering to provide us one and to allow Mohawk to get involved in the verification, but he wants to come here to drop it off and have a meeting. Do we want to work with Peter Budd?
